From Anelin Elimare's Dictation

Choll is a floating island that is home to two settlements: Jotum and Jotum Fort. The island is surrounded by lush rainforest and is split in half by a towering mountain. However, this mountain is not just any ordinary mountain, it is home to a deadly basilisk-dragon mix that poses a great threat to the inhabitants of the island.

Choll is a floating island that has been around for centuries. It is believed to have been formed by powerful magic that caused a piece of land to detach from its original plane and float in the void between planes. The first settlers of Choll were a group of powerful mages who discovered the island and decided to make it their home. They established the two settlements of Jotum and Jotum Fort, and built a mountain as a barrier between them. The mountain was home to a deadly basilisk-dragon mix, which the settlers eventually learned to coexist with.

The basilisk-dragon that inhabits the mountain on Choll is a terrifying creature, a mix of the natural and the metallic. It has a large, serpentine body covered in dark scales that shimmer like obsidian in the sunlight. Its eyes are

Its wings are large and leathery, and it can use them to fly short distances. It is known for its deadly gaze and its ability to petrify its victims.

One of the key features of Choll is the presence of the Pearl Plunderers, a powerful guild that specializes in magic and magical item creation. The Pearl Plunderers are known for their ability to form weapons out of pure magical energy, drawing from various planar sources. Some believe that they were the underlying cause of the mages' crisis, but the truth remains shrouded in mystery.
